

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

A system for transferring data between application systems. The system comprises a mediating system centrally located among a plurality of application systems configured to function in an application operating environment. The mediating system supports data transfers between any two of the configured application systems.

666207 42102400